A NEW MUSIC BOOK; OR THE
New York Musical Review.
FOR NOTHING!
We have in press, and shall publish in October, "ASAPH, OR THE CHOIR BOOK," a new collection of Church Music for Singing Schools and Churches, by Dr. Lowell Mason, who has been for many years, published in 1864, reached the enormous sale, in its first year, of over 60,000 copies, which is, we are confident, the largest sale ever enjoyed, in its first year, by any Church Music Book by a single author. The work now in press will embrace nearly all new matter culled with great care from numerous sources, such as, it is believed, will be of the highest interest to Choirs and Singing Schools. Its Singing School, and Church Music, are complete and complete in any previous work, being indeed, a complete work in itself, and forming an extensive collection of secular music, the words, as well as music, to which, are nearly all quite new. Retail price, one dollar.
We publish, also, THE NEW YORK MUSICAL REVIEW, a fortnightly journal of sixteen quarto pages, including four pages of choice music in each number, with twelve pages of reading matter, including frequent articles from the leading musicians of the country, with all the musical news, &c., &c. Subscription, $1.00 per annum.
In view of the present hard times, and with the purpose of obtaining a wide circulation for specimens of music, we have decided to publish the paper for a year, and also, as a work of merit, a copy of Dr. Mason's new work, to be sent to every subscriber, giving two dollars worth for one. Those desiring the book sent by mail, must enclose twenty-four cents, to pay postage & in advance.

THE PUBLIC CREDIT.

It may not be out of place to call attention to the present satisfactory condition of the public credit. Believing from the outset that the country was strong enough to bear the various measures found necessary to supply means for the war, it is not a surprise now to find every form of credit put forth by the government steadily rising in value.

There is no surfeit of demand note currency, as was so confidently predicted; on the contrary it is almost impossible to get those notes into currency, so much better are they than other currency. The issue of these is evidently largely absorbed in the States of the west and interior, as was expected, and are there valued almost as highly as gold. Who now expects a depreciation of these notes, or fears a surfeit of them because they are for the time inconvertible into gold?

The seven-thirty notes are also rising to a value which shows that six per cent. is quite enough for the government to pay to command all it may need hereafter. A portion of these may, by early legislation, be kept within the control of the Treasury. It is not clear what the total amount of debt in which is liable to be put at this rate of interest, the options offered in the matter of demand notes being still mainly within the control of the authorities issuing them. There is no longer need of paying excessive interest; it is clear, and the strange financial prophecies of evil, so freely put forth, in the Senate particularly, need careful revision by their authors before further legislation is had.

United States steadily increase in financial credit under the vast preparations and expenditures required in crushing this rebellion. Nothing has been easier than to prove conclusively that the United States were ruined, financially as well as politically, when the cotton States seceded; and again, that the calling out of four hundred thousand men to fight the rebellion would bring about that same catastrophe. Of course it followed that an army one-half larger than this could not be maintained without utter prostration of resources and a resort to forced loans. Delays and delays would duplicate this ruin, and at least half a dozen unanswerable lines of demonstration have settled the hash for us in advance. Yet in spite of all these things the financial and military strength of this weak and broken Union rises steadily and triumphantly at every turn. The measure of strength we have put forth is without parallel in the history of nations, yet it has not weakened any element of the public strength, nor shaken the public credit, nor frightened business from its ordinary course.

The painful truth may as well be admitted by secessionists and their sympathizers everywhere, that the power of the free State is great enough to overcome all enemies, foreign and domestic. The simple social structure that exists in and characterizes them will bear the greatest strain that national disaster can bring, and triumphantly surmount it. The most powerful armies of the world can be called up from such a people with but a month or two of warning, and all the money and means that can be used fairly, and even wastefully, can be gathered to the support of its military operations. And it is also worth while to command to the faint-hearted and doubtful among ourselves this display of unexpected resources, and to recall to them the proofs already apparent that a liberal and confident course on the part of the conductors of the government is the best and safest at all times. The Treasury might, by going beyond its resources, and by admitting all that the "assassin" and "continental money" depreciators feared, have easily brought on itself no small measure of misfortune. The fight was a sharp one to compel the Treasury to go into the market for money as a declining railroad company would, to sell its bonds at whatever rate per cent. they would bring, and to admit itself hopeless of paying a fair interest for the money it must have. Fortunately, the fight over the public credit was won by the hopeful side, and the consequences are all that the most sanguine could have predicted—better, indeed, than any dared predict.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS.

CALICO DRESS BALL.—As will be seen by reference to our advertising columns, the pupils of Mr. C. A. White's Dancing School have made arrangements to give their teacher a complimentary benefit at Bellevue Hall on the 15th of this month. We are informed that a number of pupils from other places will participate in the hop. One of the leading features of this Ball, is to be the entire absence of any display of silk and other costly fabrics by the ladies, all being restricted to dress in calico. This is a very nice arrangement, and, if properly carried out, will result in a pleasant season for those attending the hop. It not infrequently happens that our merry-makings are embittered by the strife so often manifested by a portion of the company to outshine the rest in costly habiliments. But why should the restrictions be placed on the ladies and not on the gentlemen? To have fair play in the matter the ladies should be represented in the "Committee on Dress" as well as the more broad shouldered bidders. If the ladies are to be prohibited from wearing anything but cotton goods of home manufacture, why should not the gentlemen be required to dispense with foreign broadcloth, satins, lilies, &c., and have the suit throughout made of cotton? "What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander."

CORONER'S INQUEST.—The body of a man with his head missing was found on Bateman's shore at about half past six this morning. A jury was summoned and a coroner's inquest held. The jury consisted of the following gentlemen: Benjamin Marsh, 2d, Coroner; Joseph A. Carr, Foreman, James Horswell, Wm. G. Carpenter, Pardon S. Vane, John D. Swan, Robert Seattle. The jury, after its investigation rendered a verdict that "The Deceased came to his death by accidental drowning." The body was supposed to be that of one of the men who were lost in the same boat that was found near the same place some two or three weeks ago. The body was taken in charge by the keeper of the poor house.

At a meeting of the Sprague Zouaves, held at their Armory last evening, the following officers were elected:

Captain—Edward L. Williams.
1st Lieutenant—Garwood Burnet.
2d " Thomas Sharp.
3d " Benjamin C. Hubbard.

SERGEANTS:
1st—William Young.
2d—Charles G. Burnet.
3d—Thomas W. Freeborn.

THE BURNSIDE RIFLES.—This juvenile corps, which now numbers 85 members, have again secured the services of Mr. Wm. King, as Drill Master, and are making rapid progress in learning military tactics. The company is fully officered and meets for drill at the hall in Mr. Northman's building three evenings in a week. About two thirds of the company are provided with guns manufactured for them by Mr. King. Arrangements have been made to procure uniforms for the whole company, preparatory to a grand parade on "election day."

Gen. Fremont.—This officer appears to have been engaged hitherto in organizing his department. If the time occupied here long, it is yet much less than any other Major General has consumed in preparatory arrangements. He has now, however, taken the field. His first task will be to put down skirmishing and guerrillas, and restore local law and order throughout southwestern Virginia. He is also making preparations for relieving the Unionists of East Tennessee—the special desire and ambition of Gen. Fremont.—The Washington Intelligencer, from which we derive these particulars, says that the General has already won the regards of all who have come in contact with him, though the object of bitter prejudice at first. Of the future the Intelligencer says:

"We are not at liberty of course to speak in reference to the number of troops in the Mountain Department. Suffice to say it is much greater than many people suppose. Since four or five Brigadier Generals have commands within it. The combinations which will be made are dependent on operations within Gen. Bank's Department, and the general requirements of the service along the line of the Potomac and the Rappahannock. Gen. Fremont may at any time be ordered to act in conjunction with the movements that look toward Richmond, or he may be left to pursue operations within his own Department."

THE COTTON TRADE AT NASHVILLE.—The Nashville Union of the 23d instant says:

"There is great briskness in the cotton market at present at this point. Loads are constantly passing through the city on their way to the river. One boat day before yesterday left with some two hundred bales. Buyers are securing the country in all directions so far as the protection of the Federal lines extend, and sometimes even further. The planters are coming in more of practical sense, and are quick to trade. Good middling readily brings sixteen and seventeen cents in specie or United States Treasury notes, and twenty-two and twenty in current Tennessee paper. There is no holding back on the part of the planters. They all fully appreciate the immense benefits which reviving trade will confer over an almost bankrupt country. One thing has forced itself upon the minds of those even who were unwilling at first to admit the fact—interference with private property, which has not been included in the rebellion will not be made by Federal troops. All parties now feel secure in this respect. Our friends abroad may have this as a sign of reviving commerce in Nashville."

LETTER FROM YORKTOWN.

[As the Mass., 7th Regiment is in the same Brigade, with the 2d R. I. Regiment, the following letter will show the kind of service our R. I. boys are engaged in, and also present very interesting particulars not elsewhere to be found. Ed. News.]

CAMP WINDFORD SCOTT, April 21st.
Massachusetts 7th Rgt.
Newport, Virginia.

MY DEAR:—Your last, now due, is not received, but taking it for granted that you would like to hear from the seat of war I write.

Last Wednesday, our regiment was ordered on line, preparatory to moving our camp on to higher and dryer ground, but before we started an orderly rode up with orders to take one day's rations and march. As we had heard heavy firing war ways, we at once concluded we were wanted for more urgent business. The band were ordered to take six axes. Accordingly I detailed five men and took the sixth myself. We marched two miles and halted as a reserve. At sunset we went to our camp, procured our knapsack, returned to our reserve, bivouacked for the night, bivouacked at 10 P. M., and slept soundly for a reggie swamp until four A. M. Get up at that hour, marched on two miles, halted in an open field, made our coffee and sat down to wait for further orders. In the mean time we obtained further particulars of the fighting of the previous day. Our surgeon who had been out scouting said he saw eleven dead of ours and 41 wounded. Subsequently we ascertained that four companies of the 3d Vermont, 23d Mass only, charged on some rifle pits and took them, but they were afterwards retaken by the enemy, who laid in ambush; as we were driven back through a slough they opened a dam, letting down more water, which raised it to neck deep. Our rifles were wet and rendered useless and of course the slaughter was awful. Out of the 23d were 151 casualties and out of their Brigade were 205 casualties. Very many of the wounded were brought along by us upon ambulances and stretchers bound for a hospital.

Friday I went over to the place where the engagement took place, got down behind an embankment there, crowded along behind trees, and finding a large one stood up, took my glass to see if I could discover any rebels without the glass. Their forts are plainly to be seen, but I did not happen to see any one near them. Their distance from our batteries is not more than 500 yards, and now we hold their batteries still, for we have our sharpshooters in a rifle pit between two of our batteries, and every time a man attempts to do anything about manning their guns he is picked off by our sharpshooters. There has not been a shot fired from their batteries since last Thursday.

At the embrasures and work their pieces at will. The companies of sharpshooters are from Massachusetts and will not shoot on Sunday unless pressed by the enemy. It is said that Gov. Andrews requested them not to. This is right and I like it. Their rifles weigh about 40 pounds and have a telescope running the entire length of the barrel which ranges the object aimed at of half a mile distance close to eye. A little incident will illustrate their skill. A rifle pit is dug, the earth being thrown towards the enemy and high enough for a man to stand easily.

The gun is laid upon the top of the embankment just deep enough to be concealed from sight. It is the trade of contending parties to discover the localities of each other. Two of our men had discovered the locality of a very shrewd man on the other side, but could not succeed in drawing him from his hiding place. As a last resort our men adopted the following sharp practice—one says to the other—I will expose myself by running out in full view. Of course he will come out to take me off. Now before he can sight me you drop him. The trial proved entirely successful. One of ours killed five of theirs day before yesterday—one an officer.

About 8 P. M., Saturday, in a drenching rain, and dark as Egypt, they opened fire. Our regiment was ordered into line, the band to report to the hospital, take stretchers, &c. We took up our line of march for what all supposed might result in a fight. As we marched off, the band in the rear, our Assistant Surgeon over us, he lagged behind, and we got lost. I ordered the band to follow me and tried to find the regiment, and after a half-hour's scouting, the head nurse got detached from us and for his neglect caught three bullet holes through his cap from rebel pickets. He finally laid down till day light and then came into camp.

As soon as the regiment reached its position it was still almost as death, and we stumbled on to them before discovering them in the darkness. They were ordered to load and equate. Our Colonel kept walking along the line, telling the men to take proper distances, keep perfectly still and not fire again until orders came from him. As the firing came nearer, some of the men checked their pieces, but not a gun was discharged. I found some pine branches up on which I lay down, but did not dare to go to sleep for fear the rest of the band might not awake. In the morning I saw but one wounded man brought by on a stretcher. We returned to camp at noon in a heavy rain. Our Colonel kindly excused us from 8 P. M. roll call, and didn't see Jeff last night? I reckon! It is said I am in command on the other side and probably the battle of the whole will be on this line for the enemy have a chain of forts 10 miles long. But when our sergeants are in position "Little Mo" will give them a chance to vacate or take the consequences which will be terrible. P. S.

WAR NEWS.

SUSPICIOUS MOVEMENT OF REBEL BOATS.

HOLLINS AMAZED AT THE FALL OF NEW ORLEANS.

Fortress Monroe, May 1.—(Special dispatch to the New York Times.) Three or four rebel boats were seen off Sewall's Point this morning. They appeared to be placing buoys to mark the channel.

General Prentiss and 700 Federal prisoners arrived at Selma, Ala. The officers will be sent to Talladega and the privates to Montgomery.

Com. Hollins passed through Columbia Saturday, en route to Richmond. He is amazed at the fall of New Orleans. He stated that these were 100 heavy guns in position between Fort Jackson and the city; that the gunboat Louisiana was ready and waiting; that numerous boarding parties were organized to take the National vessels at all hazards, and that the Mississippi, though unfired, could, if necessary, be brought into action.

The rebel general Gladden died from wounds received at the battle of Shiloh.

SURRENDER OF FORT MACON.

THE FORT YIELDS AFTER TEN AND A HALF HOURS' BOMBARDMENT.

Washington, May 1.—The following dispatch is taken from the Richmond Enquirer:

Wilmington, April 29.—Fort Macon surrendered conditionally on Monday last. A portion of the garrison arrived here, at 12 o'clock last night. It is reported that Col. White saved all the public papers. The officers were allowed to take their side arms. Several of our men are reported killed and a number wounded.

SECOND DISPATCH.

Wilmington, April 29.—Fort Macon surrendered on Friday, 25th inst., after a bombardment of ten and a half hours. The batteries were planted behind sand banks. The breaching battery was 1100 feet distant and the mortars 1400 feet, and entirely concealed from the forts. The garrison were allowed the honors of war. The officers retained their side arms, and all paroled. Seven men were killed and eighteen wounded, two mortally. The enemy's loss is not known. Col. White and 155 men arrived off the bar yesterday afternoon, on the federal gunboat Chippewa, and were transferred to a river steamer under a flag of truce, and reached here as stated in the first dispatch. The others were sent up the sound from the fort.

SURRENDER OF NEW ORLEANS.

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN COM. FARRAGUT AND THE REBELS.

Washington, April 28.—The following correspondence, together with the announcement of the surrender of Fort Macon, N. C., is taken from the Richmond Enquirer of yesterday, which city it reached by telegraph, and was to-day received at the Navy Department. The correspondence is between the Mayor of New Orleans and Flag Officer Farragut:

UNITED STATES FLAG SHIP HARTFORD,
OFF New Orleans, April 26, 1862.

To His Excellency the Mayor of the City of New Orleans:

Upon my arrival before your city I had the honor to send to your Honor Capt. Bailey, U. S. N., second in command of the expedition, to demand of you the surrender of New Orleans to me, as the representative of the Government of the United States. Capt. Bailey reported the result of an interview with yourself and the military authorities. It must occur to your Honor that it is not within the province of a naval officer to assume the duties of a military commander. I came here to reduce New Orleans to obedience to the laws of, and to vindicate the offended majesty of the Government of the United States. The rights of persons and property shall be secured. I, therefore, demand of you as its representative the unconditional surrender of the city, and that the emblem of the sovereignty of the United States be hoisted over the City Hall, Mint and Custom House by the meridian of this day, and all the flags and other emblems of sovereignty other than that of the United States be removed from all public buildings by that hour. I particularly request that you shall exercise your authority to quell disturbance, restore order, and call upon the good people of New Orleans to return at once to their vocations; and particularly demand that no person shall be molested in person or property for sentiments of loyalty to their government. I shall speedily and severely punish any person or persons who shall commit such outrages as were witnessed yesterday, by armed men, firing upon helpless women and children, for giving expression to their pleasure in witnessing the old flag.

I am, very respectfully,
D. G. FARRAGUT,
Flag Officer, Western Gulf Squadron.

[THE REPLY.]

MAYOR'S OFFICE, CITY OF NEW ORLEANS, City Hall, April 26, 1862.

Flag Officer D. G. Farragut, United States Flag Ship Hartford:

In pursuance of a resolution which we thought proper to take, out of regard for the lives of the women and children who still crowd the metropolis, Gen. Lovell has vacated it with his troops, and restored back to me the administration of its government and the custody of its honor. I have, in council with the City Fathers, considered the demand you made me yesterday, of an unconditional surrender of the city, coupled with a requisition to hoist the flag of the United States on the public edifices, and haul down the flag that still floats upon the breeze from the dome of this hall. It becomes my duty to transmit you an answer, which is the universal sentiment of my constituents, no less than what the prompting of my own heart dictates to me on this and my solemn occasion.

The city is without the means of defense, and is utterly destitute of the force and material that might enable it to resist an overpowering armament displayed in sight of it. I am no military man, and possess no authority beyond that of executing the municipal laws of the city of New Orleans.

It would be presumption in me to attempt to lead an army to the field, if I had one at command, and I know still less how to surrender an undefended place, as this is, at the mercy of your gunners and mortars. To surrender such a place were an idle and unmeaning ceremony. The city is yours by the power of brutal force, not of my choice or to the detriment of its inhabitants. It is for you to determine what will be the fate that awaits us here.

As to hoisting any flag not of our own adoption and allegiance, let me say to you that the man lives not in our midst whose hand and heart would not be paralyzed at the mere thought of such an act. Nor the more thought of such an act. Nor could I find in my entire constituency so desperate and wretched a renegade as would dare to profane with his hand the sacred emblem of our aspirations. Sir, assuredly emblem of our aspirations which you have manifested sentiments which you would become an engaged in a better cause than that to which you have devoted your sword. I doubt not that they spring from a noble though deluded nature, and from a noble though deluded nature, and can in the least affect their dignity and respect. Pray, sir, do not fail to re-assess their susceptibilities. The obligations which I shall assume in their name shall be religiously complied with. You may trust their honor, though you might not count on their submission to unmerited wrong.

In conclusion I beg you to understand that the people of New Orleans, while unable to resist your force, do not allow themselves to be insulted by the interference of themselves as have rendered themselves odious and contemptible by their dastardly desertion of our cause in the mighty struggle in which we are engaged, of such as might remind them too forcibly that they are the conquered and yours the conquerors. Peace and order may be preserved without resort to measures which could not at this moment prevent. Your occupying the city does not transfer allegiance from the government of their choice to one which they deliberately repudiated, and they yield the obedience which the conqueror is entitled to exact from the conquered.

Respectfully,
JOHN P. MONROE, Mayor.

The End of Naval War.—If there are no ships of war but iron ships, and iron ships are mutually shotproof, how are they to fight?

Hostilities might perhaps still be carried on by means of shells, charged with fulminating vapor, regardless of expense. No such shells, if big enough, would no doubt make a hole in the iron sides of any vessel; but as fulminating vapor goes off with much less friction than what will render a lucifer match, they would be rather too much difficult in charging a shell with it. It remains to be seen, if the science of reciprocal destruction should be thus arrested, what plan the human brotherhood will then invent for smashing, burning, or sinking one another's fleets. Some new discovery in electricity, some artificial lightning, for example, which will emit through ribs of steel, may possibly be found to answer their benevolent purposes; but there really does seem some ground for hoping that, ships being rendered practically invulnerable, any two vessels of war belonging to hostile nations, will, hereafter, meeting on the high seas, each find herself unable to injure the other, and therefore be obliged to part in peace, the result of their collision having been as the result of the collision between two boats.

The Rebel Defence at Yorktown.—A letter from Yorktown says: "Every new road your correspondent wanders into some new fortification or work of defence built by the rebels turns up. The highway, directly east of the rebel Fort Gratiot, some three-fourths of a mile, has been dug up something similar to digging out one kind of spots from a checker board, making it an impossibility to locomote that way either by man or beast. In the field, besides these holes, are rifle-pits, built for the purpose of concealing rebel marksmen. If the Union troops get outmanned in this net, Fort Gratiot commands this road as well as the unfinished part back of Mr. Grey's house. There is also a small fort down near Beach Creek Landing, very neatly built and sited. This is about one mile and a half below Grey's house. No guns have ever been mounted on it. Thus Yorktown is lined, from Ship Point to Washington, with fortifications of all shapes and sizes. All of them are first-class earthworks, built by experienced and scientific soldiers."

We have a report that The World has passed into new hands, and will appear on the 1st of May as a "Democratic" organ patterned after The Albany Argus. We think the change advisable peculiarly. As a religious journal, The World did not succeed; as a political journal, professing independence but seeking to assuage more devoted to the National Administration than the Republican press, it has thriven even worse than in its original guise. The Democracy of our country want a Sunday paper, and by going in strong for Sunday tipping, nullifying the Excise Law, and all manner of free jollity, The World may yet be made to pay. At all events, something had to be done; and as it can at the worst but fail, it can lose nothing but reputation by giving the new dodge a fair trial.—N. Y. Tribune.

Lieutenant Worden.—We are glad to learn that the injuries of this gallant officer, though very severe, are not likely to deprive his country of his future services. He will emerge, we are told, from his present sufferings in better general health than he has enjoyed for some time. Let us add that the subscription in his honor, which has been set on foot in this city, is everywhere well received, and will doubtless be completed. In recognizing the merit of a brave and faithful officer the nation does not confer a charity (for which in this case there is no occasion), but merely discharges its debt of gratitude.—N. Y. Herald.

I have analyzed Samuel Klidder & Co's "Imperial Yeast Powder," manufactured by Messrs. Daniel F.
